Durham businesses employ hundreds of UNH students.

“I’ve made a lot of friends here. I work with a great group
of people—from
the town and the University.”

Durham Marketplace Employee

Durham resident Chuck Cressy (right) has owned Durham Marketplace since 1991 and employs about 50 UNH students each year. “I love hiring students and I especially love the fact that I have a mix of students and full-time employees,” says Cressy.

Student employee John Townes has worked at the store since he was in high school and enjoys its friendly atmosphere. On a busy day, he can be found behind one of the cash registers, greeting his fellow students and Durham families with a smile. Stop by and say “hello,” the next time you see him.

A partnership between the Durham community and the University of New Hampshire.
