1,300 UNH alumni live
in Durham.

“Working in Durham makes me realize that this is actually a town where people live, not just a college campus.”

—Haley L. McCarthy '05
UNH Business Administration Major
Houghton Hardware Employee

During the 44 years Dick Houghton has been a Durham businessman, he has employed hundreds of UNH students. “Student workers bring energy and vitality, and a tremendous work ethic,” says the UNH alumnus and Madbury resident.

Haley McCarthy, a senior majoring in Business Administration and Marketing from Salem, N.H., is a current Houghton Hardware employee. She enjoys the easy working atmosphere and meeting the Durham residents who come in to the store. “Being with adults other than teachers grounds me,” she says.

For Houghton, the students bring gifts of their own: “With students around you, it’s a lot easier to stay light-hearted and not get too serious about things.”

A partnership between the Durham community and the University of New Hampshire.
